6
Order of St Vladimir, Military Division, a large and impressive 'bulbous' badge of high quality, in gold and enamels, without marks beneath enamel and with maker's mark on reverse of suspension ring unclear but showing 1896-1908 St Petersburg kokoshnik, 63.5mm (including suspension ring) x 58.3mm, thickness 13mm at centre, small chip at the edge of the central medallion on obverse, good very fine and extremely rare; and a modern sash £60,000-80,000

Provenance:
Attributed to VICE-ADMIRAL OSKAR VIKTOROVICH STARK, 1846-1928 who, as Commander of the Pacific Fleet at Port Arthur, famously arranged a ball in honour of his wife aboard the Petropavlovsk, when the opening salvoes of gunfire in the Russo-Japanese War were at first thought to be part of the entertainment provided:

'The band was playing loudly, and the most honorary guest, Admiral Alekseyev, the Viceroy, glided along the parquet with the heroine of the day with surprising grace for his rather obese figure. When the dance reached its apogee, and the viceroy stood on his knee to circle the lady, the windowpanes suddenly shook from the thunder of the cannonade. Everyone applauded, surprised by such a timely salute, and the overall excitement increased. The ball continued to the accompaniment of the orchestra and artillery fire.'

A noted explorer and recipient of the Order of St. Vladimir, 2nd Class, Stark was recalled to duty in the Great War, when in his late 60s. Resolutely loyal to the Imperial cause he was based in Vladivostok during the Civil War, becoming involved with the White movement. Eventually forced to arrange an evacuation from Siberia in October, 1922 as the Red Army's impending victory became apparent, and dogged with misfortune, he was finally forced to lower the Imperial standard in the Pacific in January, 1923. In exile he retired to Finland.

Ex Suomen Numismaattisen Yhdistyksen [Finnish Numismatic Society] Auction, Helsinki, 7 April 1990, lot 155. The badge was examined and authenticated at the Hermitage Museum in 1992, when thought to be a First Class award.

A COLLECTION OF WATERLOO (AND RELATED) MEDALS as awarded to units present at the Battle

First Corps: H.R.H. The Prince of Orange

1 British Brigade: Major General P. Maitland

89
Waterloo, 1815 (Richard Brookes, 2nd Batt. Grenad. Guards.), original steel clip suspension with later split ring, good very fine and lightly toned £3,000-4,000

Roll confirms Private Richd. Brooks, Lieutenant Colonel Fitzroy Somerset's Company. Brook(e)s, who was slightly wounded at Waterloo, was a framework knitter from Derbyshire who enlisted at Dover on 1 April, 1813. (For further details see Chambers, Barbara J., Waterloo and Beyond… , 2003).

Military General Service, 1848, 1 clasp San Sebastian (T. Burbridge, Corpl. 1st Foot Gds.), edge and surface marks, about very fine £1,200-1,500

MGS roll confirms (WO 97/159, from Lowden, Dorset). Waterloo roll confirms as Private Peter Burbridge, 3rd Battalion Grenadier Guards, Lieutenant Colonel Charles Thomas's Company.

It appears that Burbridge, who was wounded at Waterloo, may never have received his Waterloo medal. Incorrectly labelled 2nd Battalion, it was amongst those of non-effectives returned to Horse Guards and, as Mullen points out, this presumably arose from confusion involving the award to Thomas Delbridge (who was of the 2nd Battalion).

Chambers also notes confusion not only of the Christian name but also the surname (Bebridge, Burrage, Burbage). Burbridge enlisted at Chatham in 1809 at the age of 20 and was discharged in November 1815 after losing the use of his elbow when wounded at Waterloo. He lived at Loders, Dorset and died on 30 December 1870.

Message notes the provenance of this M.G.S. to a Glendining auction in 1913.

MGS roll confirms; WO 97/128, from Ringwood, Hampshire.

Waterloo roll confirms Troop Serjeant Major James Stride, Captain P.L. Cox's Troop No 6.

Anecdotally it was Stride's horse which Henry Paget, Lord Uxbridge, was riding when a cannonball struck his knee and led to his famous observation 'By God, sir, I've lost my leg!' to which the Duke of Wellington replied 'By God, sir, so you have!'

TROOP SERGEANT-MAJOR JAMES STRIDE, of Ringwood, Hampshire, enlisted in the 26th Light Dragoons at Maidstone, Kent. In early 1801 he was with the regiment when they sailed without their horses from Lisbon to Egypt, seeing dismounted service in Captain Turner's Troop at the Battle of Alexandria, 1801. Shortly afterwards the regiment was renumbered, becoming the 23rd Light Dragoons.

On 28 July 1809, Stride rode with Captain Loftus's Troop at the Battle of Talavera, where the 23rd Light Dragoons made their famous charge against three lines of enemy cavalry.

In the Waterloo Campaign of 1815, Stride was Troop Sergeant-Major of Captain P.L. Cox's Troop. On 16 June the 23rd were rushed up from Brussels to Quatre Bras and during the following day they were involved in covering the retreat of Allied troops. At Waterloo itself they were positioned in the rear of Halkett's 5th Infantry Brigade, making several important charges with a high degree of 'steadiness and determined bravery'. In the evening, as the Allied advance began, Lord Uxbridge rode up to the 23rd's Commander, Major Latour, requesting a troop horse to replace his own spent mount. Latour complied 'by dismounting Sergeant-Major Stride, giving his Lordship the Sergeant-Major's mare.'

Following the disbandment of the 23rd in 1818 Stride, whose duration of service covered all but three years of the regiment's existence, was discharged as being of poor health and asthmatic.

Waterloo, 1815, renamed in engraved capitals (M. Shea 2nd Batt 73rd Regt), with replacement silver clip and steel straight bar suspension, edge bruised, fine £400-600

PRIVATE MAURICE SHEA was born in 1794 at Tralee, County Kerry. When he died on 4 February 1892 he was believed to be the last surviving soldier of the British Army to have been present at Waterloo and he was buried with full military honours.

He joined Kerry Militia in 1812 before enlisting in the 73rd Foot. Omitted from the Adjutant's roll, his name appears on the June 1817 appendix to the supplementary pay list of Waterloo men. After later service in Ceylon, Shea was one of 12 men from his regiment permitted to visit Napoleon's tomb when their ship berthed at St. Helena in 1821; he was later discharged. In 1835 he joined the British Auxiliary Legion at Cork and saw service in the Spanish Civil War, being present at 26 engagements and receiving the Order of Isabella for the battle of San Sebastian, 5 May 1836. He returned to Ireland in 1838 but emigrated to Montreal following the potato famine. Shea joined Captain Forfar's Troop of Constabulary and later obtained a post in Montreal jail before moving to Quebec in 1873.

Received recognition for services in Messrs. May and Crook's report of 28 September 1894. Also,

'Sergeant Phelps and Constable Collett were engaged in the performance of very dangerous and very disgusting work at the Tung Wah, Glass House and Cattle Depot Hospitals, and but for their services it would not have been possible during the earlier stages of the epidemic to have got the dead coffined, to have had the coffins filled with quick lime and the bodies removed in time.'

Received recognition for services in the Sanitary Board's report of 24 September 1894. Also in Messrs. May and Crook's report of 28 September 1894. Publicly thanked for services rendered during the plague by Governor Robinson and Mr. Ackroyd, the Acting Chief Justice, at a parade at the Central Police Station held on Mar 21, 1895 (Hong Kong Daily Press, Mar. 22, 1895): Among those who "... rendered most valuable and efficient services and these will receive medals". Therefore, probable silver medal recipient [as can now be confirmed].

Recommended for Good Conduct Medal for plague services:

'Sergeants Phelps, Hall, and McIver should have granted them good conduct medals in recognition of their special services (Minutes of the Permanent Committee of the Sanitary Board, Sept. 24, 1894; See also Hong Kong Daily Press, Mar. 22, 1895)'.

[Phelps also] Brought charges against the lessee of the Stag Hotel, Mr. Alrey, for selling intoxicating liquor after hours ("The Stag Hotel Case", Hongkong Telegraph, Mar. 29, 1894). Pensioned in 1897.

The Musgrave Baronetcy was established in 1638 when Charles I advanced SIR EDWARD MUSGRAVE to the dignity of Baronet of Nova Scotia. Sir Edward was later to distinguish himself in the Royalist cause and was created Colonel by Charles I. He raised a regiment on behalf of the king which he financed himself and which was eventually to cost him some two thousand pounds per annum, found by selling parts of his estate. When at the Battle of Worcester Charles II had his horse shot under him, Sir Edward placed the Prince on his own mount. Following the battle he escaped to Scotland where he sought sanctuary with the Duke of Gordon; Cromwell demanded that Gordon should surrender him but Sir Edward escaped to the Isle of Man where he remained until the Restoration. His estates and honours were then returned to him.

SIR WILLIAM MUSGRAVE, 6TH BARONET succeeded his brother in 1755 and became a barrister in 1758, subsequently becoming bencher, reader and finally Treasurer of the Middle Temple. He was made a Commissioner of the Revenue in 1763 and elected a Fellow of the Royal Society in 1774, becoming Vice-President in 1780; he was additionally a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries in 1778 and its Vice-President, in 1786. He was appointed a Trustee of the British Museum in 1783 and a Commissioner for auditing the Public Account in 1785. He died without issue 3 January 1800 and is buried at St. James's, Westminster, where his monument can still be seen.

SIR JAMES MUSGRAVE, 9TH BARONET succeeded his father in 1814. A keen sportsman, aficionado of prize-fighting and a prominent member of the Quorn Hunt, he died in 1858 to be followed in turn by his brother, SIR WILLIAM AUGUSTUS MUSGRAVE, the last Baronet and former Rector of Chivenor, Oxfordshire (who died without issue in 1875).

A Sea Gallantry Pair awarded to John Taylor: Board of Trade Medal for Gallantry in Saving Life at Sea, Victoria issue, large silver (John Taylor, wreck of the "Druid" on 19th November 1893), in (damaged) case of issue, fitted with (slack) claw and ring suspension; a privately-made silver medal for the same rescue, obverse engraved Presented by Revd. B. Brigg and Friends to John Taylor for the Gallant Rescue off Margate, Nov. 19th 1893, 32mm, in case of issue, with brooch bar suspension; and an unofficial bronze 1902 Coronation medal, first with edge and surface marks, about very fine, others extremely fine (3) £700-900

On 18 October 1893 the coast of Kent was battered by a gale and in the heavy seas the brigantine Druide of Cardiff, sailing from Cherbourg, became stranded off Margate. John Fox the regular coxswain of the R.N.L.I. lifeboat Quiver was ill and the Second Coxswain refused to go out on to the raging seas. The Hon. Secretary of the R.N.L.I. then placed Bowman J. Knight in charge of the Quiver with Lifeboatman H. Jones as crew. They put out into the bay but were repeatedly beaten back by the frightful seas and returned to the harbour; another attempt was made during which the boat became waterlogged and was forced to return again to the pierhead. On inspection of the boat it was discovered that the Second Coxswain had allowed her to go to sea without securing the deck plates. The Quiver was pumped dry, the valves were shut and the plates secured and a third attempt was made to reach the stricken Druide but she was unable to get away and in great difficulty anchored near the Nayland Rock. By this time the Druide, dragging on her anchors, had narrowly missed striking the jetty and grounded on the rocks opposite Fort Point and the Ramsgate lifeboat, under tow from a steam tug, had been unable to approach the Druide as she was too close to land. At about 10.30 Albert Emptage, Master of the pleasure yacht Moss Rose, gathered some of the boatman about him and asked for volunteers to man the skiff from the Moss Rose to effect the rescue of the Druide's crew; five men quickly volunteered: Edward Whitehead, George Sandwell, John Cox, John Taylor and Arthur Twyman. The yacht's skiff was launched amidst cheers from hundreds of onlookers. Battling against wind, tide and surf the boat slowly made its way to the Druide and, after receiving a line from the ship, they were able to haul themselves close enough for the crew of five from the Druide to drop into the skiff and return safely to shore.

All six members of the skiff were awarded the Sea Gallantry Medal in silver for their heroism and the Margate and Ramsgate Gazette received several letters offering subscriptions for the 'fearless and heroic men' of the skiff. A local minister, the Rev. B. Brigg, augmented the donations and organized silver medals for each of the six men. Following the rescue the District Inspector held an inquiry into the case and it was found that, but for the gross neglect of the Second Coxswain (E. Emptage), the Quiver would have been able to reach the Druide. Emptage was immediately suspended and later resigned his position.

In 1926 John Taylor participated in another rescue. As a crew member of the M.B. Thanet Queen he rescued two men from a boat drifting in high seas; he was awarded an engraved watch (not included in the lot) and a Testimonial, which is included (this torn at edges). Also included is a photograph of the crew of the Thanet Queen together with a quantity of research.

PRESENTED TO THE CAPTAIN OFFICERS & CREW OF R.M.S. "CARPATHIA" IN RECOGNITION OF GALLANT & HEROIC SERVICES FROM THE SURVIVORS OF THE S.S. "TITANIC"
APRIL 15 1912

236

238

236
S.S. Titanic and R.M.S. Carpathia Medal, in silver, awarded to C.W. Bairnson, Chief 3rd Class Steward, R.M.S. Carpathia, by Dieges and Clust of New York; of irregular shape, with obverse view of the Carpathia attending to Titanic's lifeboats in an ice field, raised border around depicting the crowned head of Neptune, dolphins and an anchor, reverse inscription in relief 'PRESENTED TO THE CAPTAIN OFFICERS & CREW OF RM.S. "CARPATHIA" IN RECOGNITION OF GALLANT AND HEROIC SERVICES, FROM THE SURVIVORS OF THE S.S. "TITANIC" APRIL 15TH 1912', engraved C.W. BAIRNSON, with usual integral loop for suspension, suspension ring lacking, very fine and scarce £3,000-5,000

Aboard Carpathia on Tuesday 16 April, scarcely 24 hours after being rescued from Titanic, a group of First and Second Class survivors formed themselves into a committee firstly to raise monies to help provide for destitute steerage passengers and secondly to reward Captain Rostron and his crew. Before reaching New York committee members including Frederick Seward, Mrs William Bucknell and the Denver heiress Mrs J.J. (destined to become known to history as 'The Unsinkable Molly') Brown, had collected $15,000 from amongst their number. In due course the fund was placed with J.P. Morgan & Co. and was personally administered by Mr Morgan himself, also the head of International Mercantile Marine (the trust which owned Titanic), but who had himself not been aboard for her maiden voyage.

C.W. Bairnson

As for Carpathia's officers and crew, it was decided to present Captain Rostron with a loving cup and to issue a specially commissioned medal to each of the 376 crew under his command. The Survivors' Committee settled on the New York firm of medallists Dieges & Clust to create the remarkable Titanic-Carpathia medal – struck in gold for Rostron and his senior officers, in silver mainly for junior officers, and the rest in bronze. The medals were very swiftly produced in order to be ready for presentation to Carpathia's people at a special ceremony held 6 weeks after the disaster on 29 May 1912, when Carpathia was again berthing at New York, with the 'Unsinkable Molly Brown' presiding. Chief Third Class Steward Bairnson, who was aged 42 at the time and who would have been in a key position to assist survivors from Titanic's steerage passengers, received an example in silver. His medal is named in the same style as a number of other surviving examples, possibly by an engraver who was 'on the spot' for the purpose.

Shortly after 12.30am on the fateful night of 14-15 April 1912 R.M.S. Carpathia's sole wireless operator chanced to receive the scarcely believable message that the pride of the White Star Line, the 45,000 ton Titanic making her maiden voyage from Southampton to New York, had struck an iceberg in position 41 66' N, 50 14' W. The Carpathia's officer of the watch alerted his captain, Arthur Henry Rostron, without delay. Preparations were immediately made to effect the rescue of the 2,227 souls fated to become embroiled in the most celebrated maritime disaster in history.

Rapid calculations told Rostron that the stricken liner lay 58 miles distant on a course of North 52 degrees West. Carpathia's normal top speed was a mere 14½ knots but, by putting on extra stokers, the sedate 13,500 ton Cunard liner managed an unheard-of 17½ knots. Icebergs loomed up out of the dark causing sudden turns of the wheel on which depended the lives of Carpathia's own 700 or so passengers, as well as those of any Titanic survivors. As she shaped her course through a calm but bitterly cold sea, the entire crew was roused and given coffee in preparation for the night's work ahead, many being astonished when, for the first time, they heard the name of the vessel they were rushing to aid. The ship's three doctors were each assigned a post of duty. All Carpathia's public rooms, and all officers' cabins including the Captain's, were given up to Titanic survivors and all of Carpathia's steerage passengers were placed in one section of third class so that vacant berths could be given to people from Titanic's steerage. Rostron then ordered 'all gangway doors to be opened, powerful lights to be hung at the gangways and strung over the sides, a chair to be slung at each gangway to help getting the sick and injured aboard, and canvas bags to be made ready to haul up small children'. Ladders, and blocks and tackle of various kinds were strategically positioned and oil was prepared for pouring down the forward heads to make the water alongside the ship as smooth as possible. Tea, coffee and hot soup were made ready, and with the men of the Stewards' and Purser's Departments assembled at the gangways the Carpathia's Chief Officer reported at 2.30am that everything was in the best order possible.

By 3.55am Carpathia was nearing Titanic's last known position but there was no sighting of the world's most luxurious ocean liner, only a vast emptiness. At about 4am Carpathia's engines were stopped and, some 300 yards ahead, a green light could be perceived low on the water. Lines were thrown out and at 4.10 the first of Titanic's survivors were taken aboard from Fourth Officer Boxhall's Lifeboat No. 2. In the breaking dawn a ragged fleet soon came into view amidst a sea littered with floes, growlers and bergs towering up to 200 feet in height. Over the next four hours 705 survivors were taken aboard, amongst whom were Madeleine Force Astor, escorted by Carpathia's senior hospital attendant to the infirmary, and Bruce Ismay, ushered below to contemplate the full implications of the disaster in one of the doctor's cabins. Many others, still clinging to the vain hope that loved ones from whom they were separated might have been saved by other ships, were comforted by Carpathia's crew. At 8am Rostron made one last circle of the wreck site that had by now claimed 1,522 victims, and turned Carpathia back to New York.

The Carpathia Roll confirms C.W. BAIRNSON of 6 New Chester Road, Tranmere, Birkenhead and previously serving aboard SS Ultoma as 'Ch 3rd Class Steward' (source: National Archives). See also back cover illustration.

Albert Medal: London Gazette: 2 July 1937:

'On 13th May, 1937, H.M.S. "Hunter" sustained serious damage in an explosion off Almeria, Spain. Immediately the ship took on a heavy list, all lights were extinguished and there was no steam. Apparently she was about to sink. Lieutenant-Commander Scurfield, who was aft, rushed forward. Passing the galley, he heard cries from the Petty Officer Cook, who had fallen into the boiler room. He jumped down through the smoke, oil fuel, steam and debris, and by extraordinary feats of strength removed the wreckage pinning the man down. The rating was passed up on deck, but did not long survive.

Lieutenant-Commander Scurfield then proceeded to the Torpedomen's mess deck. This was flooded to a depth of 2½ feet in oil fuel; also battery gas had escaped from the switchboard room. The ladder having been blown away, he jumped down into the mess deck, not knowing whether it was intact, and passed up two men. Calling for assistance, he was joined by Lieutenant Humphreys and A.B.s. Collins, Thomas and Abrahams. After the mess deck had been cleared, he led the party into the Stoker Petty Officers' mess. The bulkhead had been shattered, and bedding and curtains were smouldering on top of the oil fuel. Bodies were pulled out from under the wreckage, and passed up on deck.

During the whole of this time, he might in the darkness have fallen into the oil fuel tanks below or into the sea. By his gallant behaviour he saved the lives of Stoker Petty Officers Lott, May and Fenley, Stoker Neil and A.B. Oliffe.'

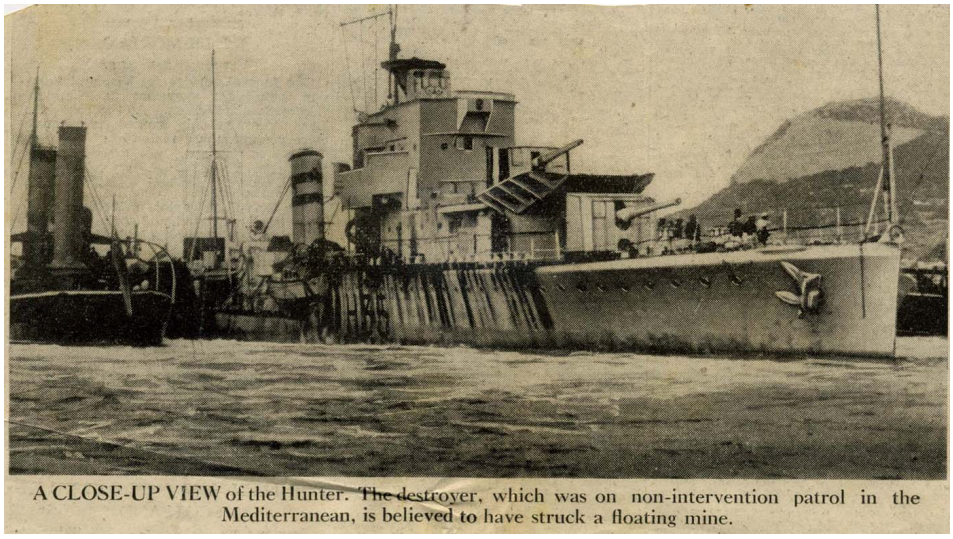
The WORK of the ROYAL NAVY and of the R.A.F. at SEA
A STORY OF THE WAR AT SEA AND OF THE HEROIC GALLANTRY OF THE ROYAL NAVY : A great liner's crew are rescued by a destroyer which went alongside despite waves 50 and 60 ft. high.—Drawing by Montague Dawson

BRYAN GOUTHWAITE SCURFIELD was born in August 1902 and was educated at Charterhouse. In September 1920 he entered the Royal Navy as a 'Special Entry' Cadet aboard H.M.S. Temeraire. In the following year he was transferred to the training ship H.M.S. Thunderer and, following his appointment as Midshipman he served aboard H.M.S. Iron Duke, taking part in the evacuation of Greek refugees from Smyrna in September 1922. In spring 1927 he joined H.M.S. Wolverine, engaged in convoy work up the Yangtsze River from Chinkiang.

In 1935 Scurfield was given his first command in H.M.S. Skate, a battleship built in 1917 and the last remnant of the Grand Fleet. She took part in the Jubilee Naval Review at Spithead (Jubilee medal).

In 1936 he received a brand-new command - the battleship H.M.S. Hunter. On 13th May 1937 the Hunter was six miles off shore from Almeria, Spain waiting to take 60 refugees to Gibraltar the following day. At 2.15 pm a massive explosion occurred when the ship struck a floating Nationalist mine, causing the fore-mast to break into three pieces and the bridge, mast and funnel to be drenched in oil and water. With the ship's radio out of action, Scurfield took stock of the situation and determined to do everything possible to rescue the wounded (see details in the A.M. citation). Eight men lost their lives and a further eleven were wounded while the Hunter, listing badly, was towed into Almeria harbour by the Spanish battleship Lazaga. Local trawlers removed the wounded and took them to the Jaime I where eight wounded men were treated, the other three being taken to the Military Hospital.



A CLOSE-UP VIEW of the Hunter. The destroyer, which was on non-intervention patrol in the Mediterranean, is believed to have struck a floating mine.

The Hunter was subsequently towed to Gibraltar and, following a £150,000 refit, she joined the Second Destroyer Flotilla in October 1938 (she was to be sunk by enemy gunfire during the first Battle of Narvik in April, 1940). In 1938 Scurfield was transferred to H.M.S. Active. He was mainly involved in patrols around Gibraltar, as well as conveying Arab deportees from Palestine to the Seychelles.

After the outbreak of war in September, 1939 he was placed in command of H.M.S. Broke, being joined by Lieutenant Peter Scott, son of Robert Falcon Scott, who was later to record his experiences serving under Scurfield in his autobiography The Eye of the Wind. In the aftermath of Dunkirk the Broke took part in the evacuation of 200 Polish soldiers from Brest; on the return voyage she was frequently strafed by German dive bombers and Scurfield was recognised with the Cross of Valour from the Polish Government in Exile.

On 6 April 1941 Broke went to meet a homeward-bound Gibraltar convoy. She encountered three ships: H.M.S. Comorin, an armed merchant cruiser, H.M.S. Glenartney and the U.S. Lend-Lease vessel H.M.S. Lincoln. Two hours later, at 6.25 pm, the Lincoln signalled to the Broke that the Comorin was on fire. When the Broke reached her no lifeboats were left but, after several contacts, Broke managed to rescue 180 Officers and men who were taken to Greenock and from there transferred to Renfrew hospital. For his outstanding seamanship in rescuing the survivors Scurfield received the O.B.E.. In July he left Broke and was appointed to command H.M.S. Bedouin, joining an Arctic Convoy to Murmansk in November, 1941.

In June 1942 Bedouin, along with Partridge, Ithuriel, Marne and Matchless formed part of the escort for the Malta Convoy Operation Harpoon. On 15 June they encountered the VIIIth Italian Naval Division under Admiral Albert de Zara and both Bedouin and Partridge were hit, Bedouin being finally sunk by a torpedo fired from a Savoia 79 aircraft. After 3 hours in the water 213 survivors were picked up (and of the 17 merchant ships which had left for Malta, only two arrived). Scurfield survived to be imprisoned in Campo P.G. 35 in the Charter House of St. Lorenzo, Padula, 100 miles south of Naples. In October 1942 he was moved to Campo Concentramento N29 at Veano but was returned to Padula in April, 1943.

Following the Italian surrender in July 1943 Scurfield was transferred to Germany and was imprisoned near Coblenz until November, 1943 when he was moved to Marlag Nord, Westertimke, a Naval Camp. On 9 April 1945 Westertimke was evacuated and the prisoners were marched towards Lübeck and on 11 April the column was attacked by half-a-dozen Allied fighters. Bryan Scurfield was mortally wounded and died the following afternoon at the Zeven hospital. He was buried initially at Zeven Cemetery before being re-interred in the C.W.G.C.'s Cemetery at Becklingen.

(a) If the Buyer pays the Purchase Price but does not collect the lot within 20 working days of the auction, the lot will be stored at the Buyer's expense and risk at M&E's premises or in independent storage.

(b) If a lot is paid for but uncollected within 6 months of the auction, following 60 days written notice to the Buyer, M&E will re-sell the lot by auction or privately, with estimates and reserves at M&E's discretion. The sale proceeds, less all M&E's costs, will be forfeited unless collected by the Buyer within 2 years of the original auction.

11. Data Protection

(a) M&E will use information supplied by Bidders or otherwise obtained lawfully by M&E for the provision of auction related services, client administration, marketing and as otherwise required by law.

(b) By agreeing to these Conditions of Business, the Bidder agrees to the processing of their personal information and to the disclosure of such information to third parties world-wide for the purposes outlined in Condition 11(a) and to Sellers as per Condition 9(i).

12. Miscellaneous

(a) All images of lots, catalogue descriptions and all other materials produced by M&E are the copyright of M&E.

(b) These Conditions of Business are not assignable by any Buyer without M&E's prior written consent, but are binding on Bidders' successors, assigns and representatives.

(c) The materials listed in Condition 1(a) set out the entire agreement between the parties.

(d) If any part of these Conditions of Business be held unenforceable, the remaining parts shall remain in full force and effect.

(e) These Conditions of Business shall be interpreted in accordance with English Law, under the exclusive jurisdiction of the English Courts, in favour of M&E.

Morton & Eden Ltd.'s Authenticity Guarantee

If Morton & Eden Ltd. sells an item of Property which is later shown to be a "Counterfeit", subject to the terms below Morton & Eden Ltd. will rescind the sale and refund the Buyer the total amount paid by the Buyer to Morton & Eden Ltd. for that Property, up to a maximum of the Purchase Price.

The Guarantee lasts for two (2) years after the date of the relevant auction, is for the benefit of the Buyer only and is non-transferable.

"Counterfeit" means an item of Property that in Morton & Eden Ltd.'s reasonable opinion is an imitation created with the intent to deceive over the authorship, origin, date, age, period, culture or source, where the correct description of such matters is not included in the catalogue description for the Property.
Property shall not be considered Counterfeit solely because of any damage and/or restoration and/or modification work (including, but not limited to, traces of mounting, tooling or repatinating).
Please note that this Guarantee does not apply if either:-

(i) the catalogue description was in accordance with the generally accepted opinions of scholars and experts at the date of the sale, or the catalogue description indicated that there was a conflict of such opinions; or

(ii) the only method of establishing at the date of the sale that the item was a Counterfeit would have been by means of processes not then generally available or accepted, unreasonably expensive or impractical; or likely to have caused damage to or loss in value to the Property (in Morton & Eden Ltd.'s reasonable opinion); or

(iii) there has been no material loss in value of the Property from its value had it accorded with its catalogue description.

To claim under this Guarantee, the Buyer must:-

(i) notify Morton & Eden Ltd. in writing within one (1) month of receiving any information that causes the Buyer to question the authenticity or attribution of the Property, specifying the lot number, date of the auction at which it was purchased and the reasons why it is believed to be Counterfeit; and

(ii) return the Property to Morton & Eden Ltd. in the same condition as at the date of sale and be able to transfer good title in the Property, free from any third party claims arising after the date of the sale.

Morton & Eden Ltd. has discretion to waive any of the above requirements. Morton & Eden Ltd. may require the Buyer to obtain at the Buyer's cost the reports of two independent and recognised experts in the relevant field and acceptable to Morton & Eden Ltd. Morton & Eden Ltd. shall not be bound by any reports produced by the Buyer, and reserves the right to seek additional expert advice at its own expense. In the event Morton & Eden Ltd. decides to rescind the sale under this Guarantee, it may refund to the Buyer the reasonable costs of up to two mutually approved independent expert reports, provided always that the costs of such reports have been approved in advance and in writing by Morton & Eden Ltd.
